

THE AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY IN SOUTH CAROLINA: A GREAT PLACE TO DO BUSINESS

Since the turn of the century—when Milliken & Company made fabric seats and roofs for Henry Ford’s gas-powered cars—South Carolina’s name has been synonymous with automotive success. This impeccable tradition attracted BMW to locate its only North American assembly plant in South Carolina, as well as Michelin North American to locate its headquarters and multiple manufacturing facilities in the state. Daimler AG and American LaFrance have also chosen to call South Carolina home. These are just a few from a long list of OEMs and automotive related assemblers and suppliers that comprise the strong and thriving automotive industry in South Carolina.
